(the “Company” or “IBP”) (NYSE: IBP) earned the National Preferred Partner Award from David Weekley Homes’ 18th annual National Preferred Partner Survey. The award recognizes field and manufacturing partners that have consistently operated at world-class levels for quality and customer service, as determined by the home builder’s supplier evaluation platform.

For the second year in a row, IBP is one of only 12 companies to be named a National Preferred Partner in the field partner category. The comprehensive process evaluates companies in the areas of quality and customer service.

“Earning this distinction for the second year in a row underscores our teams’ commitment to a job well done,” said Jeff Hire, President of External Affairs at IBP. “We know that our customers – such as our friends at David Weekley Homes – rely on us to provide exceptional service, and it means the world to us to be able to deliver on that promise day in and day out.”

Installed Building Products was one of 138 companies evaluated by David Weekley Homes and just 17% achieved the distinction of National Preferred Partner. The evaluation process involves a comprehensive system of feedback and discussion that enables David Weekley Homes to measure excellence among all established trade partners and their channel partners. Providers that receive the highest scores throughout the year are presented with the prestigious National Preferred Partners Award.

“2021 was another unique year,” said John Schiegg, VP of Supply Chain Services for David Weekley Homes. “Record numbers of home sales, a global pandemic continued, and significant supply chain disruptions have resulted in the perfect storm - demand that far exceeds supply. We are so grateful that National Preferred Partners like Installed Building Products have provided their expertise and guidance. They have made it possible for us to continue to provide the best in design, choice and service to our customers, despite the challenges.”
